INTELLIGENT TACKLE

Kodex are 100% committed to producing innovative, high-quality tackle. Whether you're aiming for big carp, pike, barbel or other specimen fish, the Kodex range is virtually guaranteed to help increase your PB.

Every product is designed in consultation with Team Kodex using the latest high-tech CAD systems and machinery/tooling. Each sample is then field-tested and refined, often over many months, until our experts are completely satisfied.

We believe in quality and innovation, from the biggest and most expensive items down to the smallest accessories. We were the first company to introduce commercially-made controller floats, while we continue to receive awards for our unrivalled design and manufacture of carp rods. Our Robo chairs are probably the fastest-selling fishing chairs in the United Kingdom. The innovation has not stopped; whether it is designing unhooking mats that double-up as weigh slings; bite alarms with interchangeable light latches, clip-in fascias and snag bars; or the unique Klampdown butt rest that fits both abbreviated and shrink-wrap size rod handles, while offering total clamp down security and quick release when you strike.

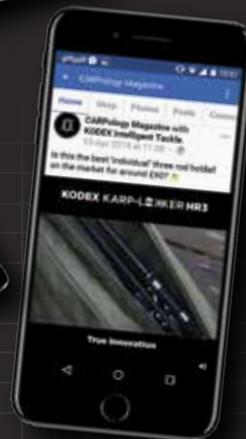

We think about every detail and don't release a product until we're sure it's absolutely right – that's why it's called "intelligent tackle". Look out for our quality-guarantee swingtickets on larger/capital items and the Kodex 'orb' on our packaging to be assured of genuine high-class Kodex tackle.

IN THE MEDIA

Many of our anglers and products appear in leading angling publications, such as CARPology and Total Carp, who always love to test and feature our latest gear. You'll find video reviews, tips, articles and competitions in places like the CARPology website and their Facebook page, too.

✦ Pushing the boundaries of rod design and manufacturing has led to the development of the world's best ever carp rod. That's a bold claim, but one that has been backed by both the angling press and countless top carp anglers. With immense power in the spine and no twist, the KX-i allows you to cast to immense distances with unrivalled accuracy - it has over 150 yards casting potential with ease. Yet, there is no compromise with its fish-playing capabilities and the tip action will subdue fish to the net without the risk of hook-pulls. This is all thanks to the construction of the KX-i, which utilises 55 tonne airforce-grade high-modular mesh and the latest Zepto-X carbon technology, resulting in this exceptional 2pc 12ft abbreviated design, with a super-slim blank. Only the most elite features are found on the KX-i; including original Fuji fittings, ultra-light titanium TG16 matte black guides, 50mm butt guide and an anti-frap tip guide. Kodex have specially designed the butt-end with a compound taper, which really assists hand-grip and casting, ensuring your hand will not slip off the bottom. Plus, a 1ft zig extension (to fish at 13ft) is included as standard with every rod. The final cosmetic details are stunning too, including a machine-engraved Kodex symbol in the butt-end and very subtle graphics throughout, giving the look of a custom build. You simply will not find a better carp rod than the KX-i. Available in 3.25lb and 3.5lb test curves. Email Kodex to find your nearest test centre.

QX-i

21st century spin on the hugely successful Avon twin-tip, updated to have three tip options...

Guide price under £120

QX-i TWIN-TIP BARBEL ROD NEW

- Full modular carbon
- Includes a non-spliced fixed tip and a quiver-carrier tip
- Two quiver choices – making it a triple-tip rod! (2oz, 4oz, 6oz options)
- Ideal blend of flexibility and power
- Lightweight S.C. guides
- Gunsmoke reel seat
- Cork handle

✚ Labeled as a twin-tip rod, really the QX-i offers a triple tip system. Use the non-spliced fixed tip to handle the largest of feeders (6oz), or put on the quiver-carrier tip and the supplied lighter quiver (2oz) or the supplied heavier quiver (4oz). Its aesthetics nicely tie in with the custom-built look of Kodex's KX-i carp rods. The QX-i is essentially a 21st century spin on the hugely successful Avon style twin tip barbel rod of days gone by, with a progressive through action, but plenty of power in the mid-section, enabling you to really feel and play the barbel rather than just hauling it in. It's the ideal blend of flexibility and power. Built from full modular carbon, with a main line recommendation of 15lb and hook length of 12lb, you can rest assured this rod will handle things even if you do happen to hit into that 'fish of a lifetime'. The cork handle is purposefully as long as an abbreviated handle on carp rods, to help with the cast and when playing the fish. Further features include lightweight S.C. guides, gunsmoke reel seat and, for a final cosmetic touch, the Kodex emblem is laser-etched into the butt end.

🇫🇷 Un lancer très puissant pouvant aller jusqu'à 170grs. Idéal pour les pêches de rivière et de gros poissons. Trois scions disponibles (56grs/112grs/170grs) sur la même canne. Elle a une action parabolique afin de ressentir des sensations fortes et un plaisir de travailler vos futures prises.

SO WHAT CARP ROD DO I NEED?

ZACH HARRIS GIVES HIS OPINION ON SOME OF THE CHOICES AVAILABLE...

As an angler who enjoys stalking, surface fishing and long-distance match style fishing, rods play a huge part in my success. Due to the nature of the types of fishing I do, it has become necessary for me to have rods from 9ft all the way up to 13ft (without skipping in-between). I never know what situation I will be in next so it's best to have a prepared armoury for whatever situation I need to tackle. Kodex offer a wide range of different rods for all of these situations and with clever engineering they have managed to keep prices low, incorporating two rods into one in more than one instance!

KOMPACT CN (CARP-NANO)

The Kompact CN is perhaps my favourite rod and it can be fished at either 9ft or 10ft using the optional 1ft extension that comes included. Breaking down to a mini 42" length this rod can be easily kept alongside a 42" net in the boot of a car without having to break down any seats. It's also ultra light and can be transported around easily without being a burden. Its full strength 3lb test curve is as strong as a conventional 12ft carp rod and can launch solid bags and 3oz+ leads with ease, whilst being very forgiving when playing fishing under the rod tip. This is my go-to rod for close range, hit and hold fishing, as well as park lakes.

SX-i

As the temperature rises, so will the fish and having a dedicated surface rod will undoubtedly help you to catch more of them. Having a super light rod like the SX-i aids in casting light controllers and it rests easy in your hands (which is good as you will most likely be holding it all day).

Having a test curve between 1.75-2.25lb aids in casting light baits, like the Munchies, and gives a better playing action when hooked into a fish. The SX-i features a full cork handle, minimal guides, gun-metal reel seat and hook retainer clip. Kodex launched it at The Big One show and although we expected a lot of interest, the actual amount of anglers who took a liking to it was unprecedented. If surface fishing is your thing, the SX-i rod will help you to land more fish!

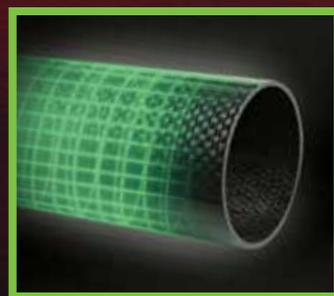

KX-i AND CX-i

The KX-i is the undisputed beast of the Kodex rod range! Hitting ranges of 150 yards at ease and with ultra high accuracy, there are very few rods on the market that can compete with its capabilities, if indeed any whatsoever. The blank is made from the same 55 tonne grade of high modular carbon that they use in military construction like for fighter jets as well as commercial planes. Kodex then layer this carbon at special overlap angles to create what's known as 'Zepto-X' technology.

I personally use the KX-i's for long range match style fishing when I go to lakes like Linear fisheries. They give me the extra power and leverage needed to get out to the distances that other anglers may struggle to reach. Paired with a big pit reel and K-Pulse main line, you will be fishing at over 30 wraps with the same effort needed to fish at 25 with other rods.

With its Fuji fittings and ultra light titanium rings (including 50mm butt and anti-frap tip), everything is top quality on the KX-i. Both the 3.25lb and 3.5lb test curve models have immense power but if you are looking to go to extreme distances then the 3.5lb is for you. The rods have a fast tip action and an even faster recovery, meaning you can bet 9 out of 10 of your casts will land where you aim them. However the rods are not all about power and you will notice this when playing a fish - you will have a very progressive bend throughout to soak up any lunges the fish may attempt, taming continental carp abroad also.

If long range big hit fishing is for you then the KX-i is your rod! There's just never been such a well-made monster of a carp rod like this before. Plus with every KX-i rod you get a free optional 1ft extension, to take it from 12ft up to 13ft - no other carp rod out there offers this as standard.

Kodex also have the CX-i rod, which is the entry level rod to the KX-i. The CX-i has the same style minimal guides, including a 50mm butt and anti-frap tip, as well as extremely similar aesthetics. The key difference is that you don't get the incredible Zepto-X carbon blank on the CX-i but it is still full modular carbon and the price comes right down - still a fantastic rod. Nor do you get a 1ft extension, nor will the CX-i cast so far as the incredible lengths you can achieve with a KX-i, nevertheless it will cast good distances and is a really good carp rod for the money. Basically, it's the option to go for if you don't have the money to stretch to the relatively expensive KX-i. ■

THE MODERN DAY ANGLER WITH LIMITED TIME

Expert consultant Mark Foster explains how he manages to get in a few quick hours after work and be successful...

As we move into spring and summer, the water temperatures are rapidly rising. Many carp will start to feed off the surface, particularly in the late afternoon and evenings. With angling pressure increase and natural foods aplenty, you can often find carp mooching around the margins, feeding on bugs that have fallen off trees and aquatic larvae hatches from weed. Carp will spend a lot of time patrolling these areas. With limited time on my hands and itching to get on the bank, I can often sneak out for a few hours after work and this is when the stalking gear comes into play.

There are numerous advantages to stalking. Firstly, the equipment needed for stalking carp off the surface is minimal. A rod, unhooking mat, landing net, a small bag of end tackle, bait and you're ready to go. Secondly, not many anglers do it and if you're willing to go find and feed the carp in the edge and other areas while everybody else is sitting behind their rods, the rewards can be well worth the effort.

Walking slowly around a lake has resulted in a number of opportunistic captures for me. By throwing handfuls of floating baits onto the water surface, looking for feeding fish can quickly result in carp giving away their location. Locating carp at close quarters puts you in a fantastic position to judge their reaction to bait and rigs. If the water is clear enough you may be able to identify individual fish. Watching them for a while may just give you a clue as to how to trip them up.

I will start firing out a few surface baits in two areas quite close to each other in the patrol routes of any spotted carp. At this point I will start to set up my SX-i rod while constantly watching for any feeding fish taking my freebies. The key is not to rush getting a hook bait into the water. Believe me; you may think you are being stealthy, but I can assure you, they know you are there! If fish begin to feed, just keep topping up with freebies. The longer they feed with no pressure, the easier it becomes to nick one or two as they start to feel you are not a threat. When stalking I'll usually use my SX-i rod - it's a super strong but lightweight floater/specimen carp rod with a test range between 1.75lb and 2.25lb and it's ideal for casting controller floats long distances if needed.

At the business end, there's only one hook link material I will use on the surface and that is the Kodex Zig & Floater. I have watched too many fish shy away from my hook baits with other lines on the surface, so tying a few metres of Zig & Floater line to the end of your main line makes all the difference. Ever since I changed to this line, the carp have no longer shied away or hesitated in taking the danger bait. Its Lo-Viz fluorocrystal characteristics make it virtually undetectable on top and underwater. This paired with a Genomic MGP Wide Gape size 10 hook tipped with a Munchie is a deadly combination. You are probably thinking, 'what are Munchies?' Allow me to explain... Munchies are buoyant hook baits that ooze colour in the water to attract fish. They're soft, pliable and have a non-uniform shape/look, providing a totally natural presentation, which is key to this approach. They're also made using 100% natural ingredients.

After casting out my float beyond the feeding area and slowly retrieving it onto or near to my free offerings; within seconds on this occasion it resulted with a fish. With an intense battle I finally manage to slip the net under a cracking Common carp weighing just over 30lb. There is something quite satisfying about watching a carp react and take your bait from the surface. I can't think of a better way to spend the afternoon. In today's busy world where you have limited time, this approach is an ideal way to land a good fish or two on a short session after work. ■

You may think you are being stealthy, but I can assure you, they know you are there!

DON'T MAKE IT SO RIGGIN COMPLICATED

Rigs play a massive part in carp fishing and it could be argued that, more often than not, this is an area where we tend to over-complicate things. Mike Salisbury offers his advice on how to keep things both simple yet effective...

I would say that I have never been much of a “riggy” person when it comes to my carp fishing and I prefer to stick with a couple of tried and tested rigs which I rarely deviate from. So, allow me to run you through these.

As my predominant choice of hookbait is a pop-up, the Multi rig is always the one that I opt for. There are many reasons for this, the predominant one being the pure simplicity of the rig. It is comprised of relatively few components, and takes literally minutes to tie. Some 25lbs Micro-Strip braid, a size 6 or size 4 Genomic MGP Wide Gape hook, a bait-screw and some Graviton putty are all that's needed to construct this wonderfully simple rig. The final result is a rig that causes few tangles when being cast due to the use of coated braid, and presents a pop-up boilie invitingly just a few centimetres off of the lake bed. Due to the buoyancy of your choice of pop-up, the amount of Graviton putty you will need to use on the rig will vary, but with a bit of trial and error, you will get it presenting perfectly. This will be when the bait and the hook are just sitting up off the bottom, leaving the hook in a kind of “claw” position under the boilie. This gives it a very aggressive hooking angle, so any carp mouthing the rig is going to be in trouble!

The Multi rig is adaptable to different fishing situations, and I'm as happy to use it in weed as I am on clearer spots. Even with spots covered in “chod”, I have found that the rig performs perfectly well. If I am faced with thick weed, I will tend to use a shorter Multi rig of just 3-4 inches inside a solid bag, and use a much lighter lead of 1oz or less. I have found that the rig will still present and hook fish in weed, and as such I haven't found the need to use a different rig in these situations. On a recent trip to France, I was faced with bottom-to-top blanket weed in many spots and, even so, I was still hooking and landing some big carp by using the Multi rig. Overall, I can't overstate how good this rig is. I use it in the UK and in France in equal measure and it has been very successful in a whole variety of angling situations. It's definitely a simple rig that I would never leave out of my tackle box.

The Multi rig is adaptable to different fishing situations.

Mike casts out his super simple Multi rig at Lac De Lumiere in France

One time that I may deviate from the Multi rig is when I find that smaller fish, particularly tench and bream, are an issue and I want to avoid them. To get around this, I use an even simpler rig, the Snowman. I tend to step up my hook size and bait size; opting for a size 4 Genomic MGP Wide Gape hook, an 18mm bottom bait and a 15mm pop-up on top. This provides a bigger morsel that smaller fish will struggle to get in their mouths. In addition, the use of an 18mm bottom bait with a 15mm pop-up on the top creates a perfect slow-sinking semi-buoyant presentation. It looks inconspicuous in bigger piles of bait, and due to its semi-buoyant nature, it will fly up into the carp's mouth with ease. Again, this rig has accounted for some fantastic carp for me, both in the UK and abroad.

“ I have ultimate confidence in Micro-Strip braid, and more importantly, in the Genomic MGP Wide Gape hooks.

On the Kodex YouTube channel, you can see me running through how to tie both of these rigs and also get the lowdown on the Genomic MGP Wide Gape hooks. Tight lines and enjoy y our fishing guys!■

Mike Salisbury

SCAN HERE TO SEE HOW MIKE TIES HIS MULTI AND SNOWMAN RIGS

What I've gone through here is extremely simple and nothing groundbreaking... and really that's the whole point. If you read carp fishing magazines, watch videos and research online, you will find all manner of weird and wonderful rigs. Some of them have their place and of course each to their own, but my thinking is that I want to keep my terminal tackle as simple as possible. I can then concentrate on the all-important placement of the rig and baiting approach, which is where I think success or failure is really determined - not by the fact that you're using the fanciest new rig. The real issue for me with rigs is being able to rely on the components you use to tie them. I have ultimate confidence in Micro-Strip braid, and more importantly, in the Genomic MGP Wide Gape hooks. They never let me down and do a fantastic job of nailing the fish. In addition, they are far from the most expensive hook on the market, which is certainly something you should consider.

Mike's uncomplicated 'Snowman' rig helps to avoid smaller fish and provides a slow-sinking semi-buoyant presentation.

Go to page 47 onwards to find Kodex's ready tied Multi rigs, as well as all the components you'll need to tie your own Multi and Snowman rigs...

🇬🇧 Serenity nets from Kodex offer incredible quality at an amazing price. The previous XS-T nets were great and really sturdy, but they used an alloy steel spreader block, which meant that the overall set-up of a 42" size net plus a 1.8m pole, or particularly a 2.3m pole, got a little too heavy to use and therefore wasn't ideal. Kodex responded to this not by simply replacing the spreader with a standard alternative, but by actually designing their own unique spreader from scratch. Thanks to this special development, the new spreader on the Serenity nets is made from much lighter-weight polymer material, but it doesn't lose any of the awesome strength from before! Another factor that's been improved is the angled cord guides at the far-end of the arms, which used to be stainless steel, but are now built from glass-nylon filled polymer – again this makes your overall set-up lighter, while remaining super strong. You can now set-up a long 2.3m pole, like the Kodex Konnect, with a 42" Serenity net and be assured that it will all be rigid, light and well-balanced.

An extra advantage to the new unique spreader block is that you can now insert one of the Kodex mini betalight/isotopes (see pg65) into either or both sides of the spreader, to make your nets more easily visible on overnight sessions. Furthermore, the netting itself is now in a more subtle shade of green, purpose designed to stop fish from being spooked as they approach the net – plus it's made from even softer feel fish-friendly material.

Serenity nets unquestionably offer the best combination of quality and value-for-money on the market, with loads of amazing features as listed (left) and guide prices starting from around just £25. The 30" size is designed particularly with barbel in mind, but is also good for other specimens like big chub, bream and tench. The 36" is best for big pike and can also be used for carp, while the 42" is of course an out-and-out big carp net. Each net is supplied with a free pull-cord carry bag.

The alarms feature soft-touch press button fine adjustment for sensitivity, tone and volume; an easy on/off silence mode for setting up; a programmable LED indicator light which can be set to your choice of colour from blue, green, purple, red, white or yellow; as well as an anti-slip soft-touch TPE rod channel. They are totally waterproof with encapsulated electronics for protection from water and condensation ingress. CX-i wireless alarms also have a night-light facility so you can easily see them on overnight sessions and they each come with two optional screw-in machined turned snag bars. These RoHS certified alarms also look the part, with a subtle carbon effect fascia. The receiver has a wireless range in excess of 100 metres and features vibration-only mode and volume control. The alarms and receiver require low-cost 9V batteries for long-lasting use (not included). You can purchase the alarms and receiver separately; or opt for the full set where you get three alarms, a receiver and a protective case all for an amazing price!

K-PULSE CAST-ASSIST MAINLINE NEW

- Fast sinking co-polymer material
- Long cast assist properties
- High X3 knot strength
- 1000 metre spools
- Abrasion resistant
- Burnt-amber natural colour

Developed in conjunction with expert carp anglers to exceed their demanding expectations, K-Pulse main line is made from fast-sinking co-polymer and offers long cast assisting properties. It is extruded to have a non-flash satin silk finish that actually assists the glide over guides and therefore increases casting potential (many other main lines are flat and too dull which creates unwanted friction). K-Pulse is also abrasion resistant and has incredible knot strength. Its burnt amber natural colour makes it virtually undetectable in the water. Available in various breaking strains and diameters, you get a thousand metres on each spool for a fantastic price.

Nouveau nylon copolymère très résistant. Sa surface lisse et sans friction vous permettra de pouvoir lancer sans difficulté à longue distance. Il possède également un revêtement non brillant qui le rend invisible dans l'eau et accentue la coulée du nylon au contact de l'eau.

Eine schnell sinkende Copolymer Hauptschnur mit einer nicht reflektierenden, glatten Oberfläche für weitere Würfe.

Monofilo affondante, anti abrasione e perfetto al nodo; rivestito per aumentare la distanza di lancio.

KARPULT CATYS

- Strong fibre filled nylon polymer frame
- Natural super strength latex in dull black
- Ergonomically designed handle
- Swivel mechanism where the latex meets the frame, to stop latex twists

🇬🇧 Karpults are super strong robust catys designed with the punishment carp fishing can inflict on certain items of tackle in mind. The camouflaged finish frames are made from a special glass-fibre filled resin polymer that actually makes the tensile strength stronger than alloy. They have a substantial handle grip which is ergonomically designed for maximum comfort and grip when held in-hand. The latex is adjoined to the frame with special 'slugs' that swivel to stop latex twist and prevent tangles. The pouch is propelled by totally natural latex with particular attention being given to the sewing and eyelets to stop them breaking open even after many, many uses. They are accurate and precise and will fire huge distances.

- Adjustable hair position

🇬🇧 These braid rigs are suitable for many venues and are constructed from high-quality components, including wide-gape GenomicMGP hooks with a micro-ground super sharp point. These hooks have a non-flash matt finish for rig concealment and are made from Japanese 130 grade carbon to ensure strength and durability. The 14.5cm (5.8") length makes these perfect for fishing on the bottom or as pop-up rigs. Tied using a knotless knot with fine, soft Micro-Force braid, in a subtle shade that blends to most lakebeds. It also allows the bait to move freely and look as natural as possible. A translucent weed green Kodex anti-tangle sleeve is affixed, which 'kicks' out the rig on both the cast and at the point of entry to the water, ensuring excellent hook-bait presentation. The swivel is a black anti-glare size 8 from the renowned Kodex range. A small translucent silicone sleeve is affixed to the hook-shank and hair of the rig, allowing you to adjust how far the hair stands off the rig to ensure the hook turns on the take. Hair lengths are also matched to hook sizes, allowing bigger baits to be used on bigger hooks. At first glance you might even think that the hair looks a little long, but affix a boilie and you will see that it is in fact perfect, allowing for natural movement of your free offering. You get two rigs in each packet and usage diagrams and tips are on the reverse of the packaging.

THE MULTI-RIG

- Interchangeable hook facility
- Interchangeable swivel facility
- Lead-clip & Helicopter setup options
- GenomicMGP anti-glare Chod hook
- Micro-Strip 15lb coated hooklink
- Designed by Team Kodex consultants

Truly unique in its design, the Multi-Rig offers versatility like no other. While some leading carp anglers have been using this excellent rig for quite a while, it's never been available to buy ready made-up until now. Because it's not widely used or known about, this type of rig can be the edge you need on tricky pressurised waters, due to the fish not having seen its unique rig mechanics.

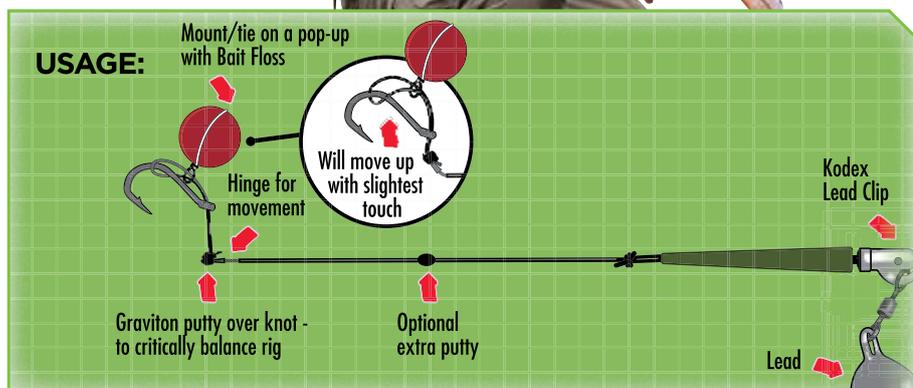

It has an anti-glare size 8 swivel that fits all popular lead-clips, which can be quickly interchanged to a size 11 Flexi/Heli swivel (included in the packet) for helicopter style setups. Additionally, you get two hook sizes with every rig! They can be easily interchanged due to the unique nature of the Multi-Rig; choose from a packet with sizes 3 & 5, or 5 & 7. This also means that if you buy the hooks separately too, then should your hook point happen to blunt for any reason you can quickly put on a new hook without reconstructing a whole new rig - if the Micro-Strip material is still in good condition then just replace the hook in seconds! The hooks are the super strong GenomicMGP Chod pattern, with micro-ground sharp points for fast piercing and a matt anti-glare finish for rig concealment from wary carp, built from 130-grade hi-carbon Japanese steel.

They're tied to the latest Micro-Strip 15lb coated hooklink material, which automatically sinks and pins down the rig, leaving you only needing to apply a small amount of Graviton putty on the knot near the hook. The hinged section can then move with very little resistance. You ideally want just enough putty to critically balance the rig, as this can be a real advantage on waters that see a lot of pop-ups.

Team Kodex consultants are behind this incredible development - buy the Multi-Rig and see for yourself how much versatility it provides. It is the ultimate advanced pop-up rig and a very clever variant on the Chod rig principle, allowing for a super short popped-up length of around 25mm (1") dependent upon which hook size you use.

- Bas de ligne montée à conception nouvelle pour la pêche pop-up. Hameçon interchangeable. Le paquet comprend deux hameçons de taille différentes.
- Ein hervorragendes neues Vorfach für Pop-Ups. Der Haken ist leicht wechselbar und es werden Haken in zwei Größen mitgeliefert.
- Eccellente montatura di nuova concezione per pescare con gli inneschi pop-up. L'amo è intercambiabile e il pacchetto contiene due misure differenti di amo.
- Zahnutý dvě velikosti rybářský háček. Speciálně navržený pro 'pop-up' rybolov.

"The Multi is one of the most versatile rigs around and Kodex's ready-tied is the best. Perfect for popping baits up on all lake beds. The mechanics are similar to the Chod and 360 rigs." – Mark Foster

GRAVITON SUPER-HEAVY TUNGSTEN PUTTY

- Soft and pliable
- Super-heavy to pin down rigs perfectly
- Atomic weight of 184 – one of the heaviest elements in the universe
- Hi-adhesive type properties to ensure it stays put
- Supplied with seal tight reusable box!

Graviton putty has a high-Tungsten, heavy-weight content that hugs the contours on the bottom of the lake and sinks quickly. The Tungsten in Graviton putty has a relative atomic mass (A_r) of 184* – one of the heaviest elements in the entire universe – and a high-density (ρ) of 19.4g/cm³. Warm the putty in your hand for a while and it will become soft and sticky, and pliable to your chosen material, with its hi-adhesive type properties. Once applied and in the water, the putty will harden off and grip firmly. Team Kodex have tested it over several months and now consider Graviton to be essential for correct rig presentation – use it and improve your catch rate.

GENOMIC^{MGP} CHOD HOOKS

- Japanese 130 carbon
- Micro ground points
- Accommodate bigger diameter stiff rig line
- Non-flash matt finish
- Microbarb

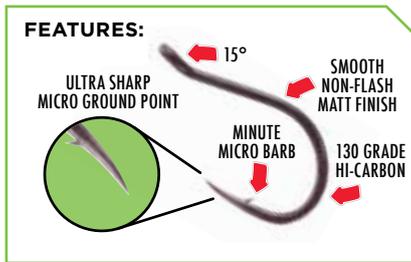

🇬🇧 Super-strong Chod hooks with a slightly beaked point for superb penetration and a non-flash matt finish for rig concealment. A unique 'MGP' micro-ground process makes the points incredibly sharp. The eyes are offset by 15 degrees to ensure that these hooks create an excellent critically balanced rig and they are a bigger diameter to accommodate thicker stiff-rig lines passing through three times. Consultation with Team Kodex led to the purposeful creation of odd sizes (3, 5 and 7); they, like many top anglers, believe that Chod hooks work best in slightly bigger sizes, tied to higher diameter stiff links. You can then achieve the very best presentation and perfect rig mechanics. See for yourself how Kodex hooks can help increase your PB.

GENOMIC^{MGP} WIDE GAPE HOOKS

- Japanese 130 carbon
- Non-flash matt finish
- Micro ground points

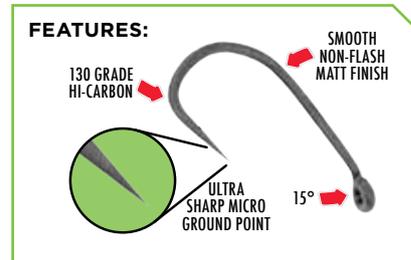

🇬🇧 In development for over eight months, these new Genomic^{MGP} hooks have a micro-ground point, making them incredibly sharp. We have also used 130 grade carbon steel to ensure strength and durability, while the finish is dull non-flash black for rig concealment. They are forged with a fifteen degree in-turned eye to help the hook turn on the 'take'. The point is leaning in very slightly but, rather than being beaked, it is straight with a wide gape, which gives better hooking potential. These hooks are chemically etched and then have a final additional micro-grinding on the points - this MGP process leaves the points very fine and fast-piercing.

MUNCHIES NEW

- Buoyant hook baits that ooze colour to attract fish
- Can be fished on the surface or popped-up on the bottom
- Non-uniform shape/look for completely natural presentation
- Totally natural ingredients
- Soft and pliable with great hook hold
- Compatible with Kodex Ectoplasm®

As water soaks in to a Munchies hook bait, an attractive colour appears around it which then continues to ooze for many minutes, creating a coloured mist that attracts fish towards your hook bait. There was phenomenal interest in these hook baits when they were launched at The Big One show and Carpfeed Magazine got hold of them to do a trial on video – just search ‘Carpfeed Munchies’ on YouTube to see how the colour oozes out. The ‘Vanilla White’ is the very latest addition to the range of hi-attractant colours available. These hook baits are naturally buoyant, but if you give them a squeeze under water they will then sink, so you can target fish at different depths. Munchies don’t have any scent (it isn’t possible), but you can make them even more attractive to fish in your swim by applying a little Ectoplasm® additive, if you so wish, for even more colour and a scent trail that carp can’t resist.

GETTIN' ZIGGY WITH IT

Zig fishing is becoming ever more popular in carp fishing and, with the amount of success they can bring you, it's easy to see why. However, many anglers either struggle to get their heads around the concept of this tactic, or try it just once or twice then give up if success isn't immediately forthcoming. Mike Salisbury explains why it's a tactic he would never rule out on any session nor any water containing carp...

Many anglers see carp as predominantly bottom-feeding fish that spend the majority of their time rooting around on the lakebed looking for food. Yet this isn't always the case. Carp do in fact spend much of their time in different layers of the water, often greatly dependent upon the time of year and weather conditions. On hot days in the summer, we will all be familiar with seeing carp cruising around just under the surface of the water. This is why an over-depth zig with a bait presented on the surface, or a standard zig fished just under the surface, can be massively effective in these conditions. The reality is that, on a lot of waters, you will pick up more carp on zigs during hot sunny days than you would by fishing on the bottom of the lake.

But it isn't just hot conditions when zig fishing can be effective. I often get some surprised looks when I say that I use zigs in the winter. Most people assume that carp will become very inactive in cold conditions and hug the bottom of the lake. This isn't necessarily the case, particularly in deeper waters, as the bottom of the lake will often be the coldest part and sometimes far too cold for them. Carp will occupy the layer of water in which they feel most comfortable. This could be several feet off the bottom of the lake, within an area known as a thermocline. Through trial and error, you can find the layer at which the fish are 'sitting' during various times in the winter and, by presenting a zig in this area, catch yourself some carp when fishing on the bottom proves to be a fruitless exercise. Trial and error to find the carp on zigs is best done by experimenting with different lengths of zigs on different rods and adjusting them accordingly until you start to pick up bites. Once you have done that, you could be in for a real bumper session, even in the depths of winter.

A thermocline (also known as the thermal layer or specifically the metalimnion in lakes) is a thin but distinct layer in a large body of fluid (e.g. water, as in an ocean or lake) in which temperature changes more rapidly with depth than it does in the layers above or below.

In terms of my zig fishing kit, there are certain bits of equipment that I would never be without. First of all are my KX-i rods with the 1ft zig extension piece. 1ft doesn't seem like a lot, but I can tell you it makes all the difference when you are trying to land a carp under the rod tip, particularly with a zig of over 6ft. To construct my zigs, I use the Zig & Floater hook link, which at 12lbs is very robust, but not so thick in diameter that it stands out when presenting baits up in the water. On the business end, I will use either a size 10 or 8 Genomic MGP wide gape hook, as they never let me down, even in the smaller sizes. Now that we have the new Zig Beasts, this will bring a whole different dimension to my zig fishing, as they really are something else! The main aspect I like is the fact that the "beasts" themselves are interchangeable, meaning that you can make quick tweaks to your presentation without having to tie up a whole new rig. Plus, their resemblance to natural food that may be present in the water means that inquisitive carp will be drawn to them. I'm looking forward to using them more over the coming year, as I'm certain that they will boost my catch rate when I'm on the zigs ■

MARK FOSTER'S TOP 3 TIPS

With carp fishing being as popular as it is, it can sometimes be a struggle to head to a water and be full of confidence that you may actually catch a carp, especially on heavily fished waters. To help you in your quest, Mark Foster provides his top three carp fishing tips below, to give you an edge over the angler in the next swim...

1. RODS SELECTION

Carp fishing rods are sold with varying actions and it can be hard to know which one to pick. A rod with a fast action makes a great casting tool, but can lead to hook-pulls at the net... while a through-action rod struggles to send leads a long way. The happy medium is a middle-to-tip action rod that will let you throw a lead long distances, but is soft enough to ensure that fish don't come off, if played correctly. Choose a rod with the correct action in the first place. Balance and rhythm are the human element to casting further. The KX-i and CX-i rods are an ideal choice, depending on your budget. The KX-i rods are my perfect choice as an all-round fishing rod; they allow you to cast long distances, but with no compromise when playing a fish and I love mine.

2. TIGHTEN THE CLUTCH

Don't fish with the clutch set too light. Instead, fish with a tighter clutch. This will immediately give you the upper hand and stop that first run – from then on you can slacken the clutch or even use the reel's backwind facility if preferred to a degree that suits you and the swim you are fishing in. By keeping the pressure and that line tight at all times, it's going to be very hard for that carp to spit out the hook.

3. CHOOSE THE RIGHT HOOK

There are many hook patterns available out there for surface fishing, bottom baits or when using pop-ups and wafers. But you can't really go wrong using a wide gape hook. This hook pattern can be used on such a wide variety of different rigs. The Genomic MGP Wide Gape is generally my go-to hook pattern, 95% of the time. I even use it on a Ronnie/Spinner rig, instead of a curve-shank hook pattern that is used by pretty much every other angler using this type of rig. Effectively, by using the wide gape hook, I am making my own hook pattern and I call it a 'Long Curved Wide Gape'. Yes that's a bit of a mouthful, but it has amazing hooking abilities. The Genomic MGP hooks are ultra-sharp straight out of the packet – using a sharper hook like these will land you more fish and that's a fact. They're my all time favourite hooks.

The Genomic MGP Wide Gape is generally my go-to hook pattern

UK DEVELOPMENT AND PRODUCTION

Unlike other brands, who have often moved all of their production abroad, Kodex still make many tackle items in the UK alongside a team of expert anglers, CAD-designers and superb engineers.

Everything is designed in the UK to demanding specifications. We source high-quality materials from five continents, including specific colour-masterbatch polymers, special paints developed to repel water and AAA grade balsa wood for our controllers, to make them very buoyant and allow them to cast and settle perfectly.

With the use of expensive colour-masterbatch, for example, we ensure perfect colour coordination on our end-tackle range. If you pick up a weed-green lead clip, a weed-green tail rubber and a weed-green anti-tangle rig sleeve, they will all be the identical subtle weed-green colour made from the same precise masterbatch. Often we achieve this while the item is also slightly translucent, to ensure the very best rig camouflage possible.

Our swivels and rings are a perfect matte-black finish, even down to the smallest 3.1mm rig rings, ensuring non-flash/glare on the lake bottom, for you to achieve a set-up that catches. Our hooks are made from the very best hi-carbon steel, then put through a unique MGP process to micro-grind the points to be super-sharp, then finally have an exclusive TJN process to ensure they are non-glare.

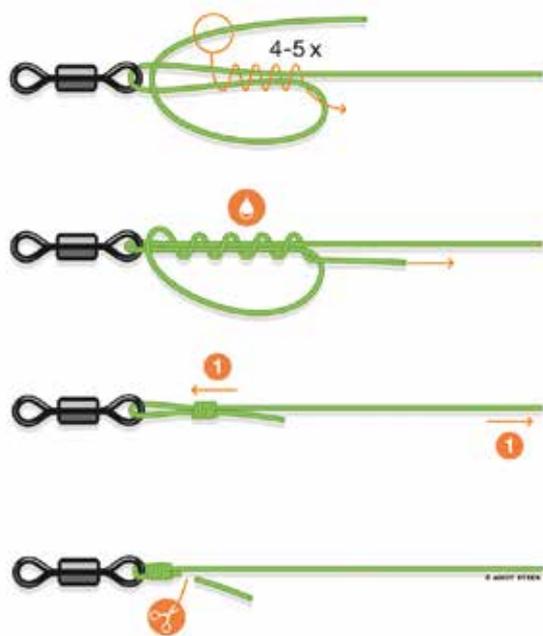

You might think all of this would have a detrimental effect on our prices, but you'll find that Kodex tackle offers not only excellent quality but also some of the best value-for-money on the market.
