

ECO TIP OF THE WEEK

HOLD A USED BOOK SWAP

A book swap is a great way to exchange books and find new stories to read. You'll also be helping the planet by trading books with others instead of discarding them. With an adult, choose a date, time, and place (such as your home, a park, or a community space) for your swap. Make a guest list and send out invitations asking everyone to bring up to five books they're willing to give away. Set up a spot for guests to "check in" the books as they arrive. Give each guest a ticket or token for each book they bring. They can use these later to select "new" books of their choosing. Once everyone has arrived, you can start swapping!

Go home with
"new" reads.
